at Lewis County Family Practice in Lowville

LOWVILLE, NY— Stacey Walton, FNP-C, now offers medical and cosmetic BOTOX treatment at Lewis County Family Practice, located at the main hospital campus on the third floor of the Medical Arts Building in Lowville.

Stacey joined the medical staff in 2021 and recently completed advanced training to provide BOTOX treatment, earning certification as a Certified Master injector. A master injector is a credentialed medical professional with high-level certification in many injectable therapies.

She is certified by the American Association of Nurse Practitioners (AANP), earned her Master of Nursing and Nurse Practitioner and Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Utica College, and received her Associate of Science in Nursing from St. Elizabeth College of Nursing, Utica, N.Y. Stacey holds advanced certifications in basic, advanced cardiac, and pediatric life support certifications and TNCC, ENPC, NIH, and SAFE-NY.

According to Nurse Practitioner Walton, “BOTOX can be used to treat a variety of medical conditions including migraines, TMJ disorders (teeth grinding or clenching), adult torticollis (a twisting of the neck from muscle spasm), and hyperhidrosis (excessive sweating).” Many insurance carriers authorize requests for BOTOX treatment for medical purposes. BOTOX can also be used for cosmetic reasons, dramatically improving unsightly lines and wrinkles around the mouth, jawline, and forehead.

Mrs. Walton also offers dermal fillers to treat fine lines and wrinkles around the mouth and lower face. Fillers can reduce marionette and smile lines or fill hollows from volume loss in the lips, cheeks, or temples to improve facial appearance.

“Injectable treatments can quickly make a big difference for several medical conditions, and with little inconvenience can help people feel more vibrant and youthful,” stated Ms. Walton.
